“WHO ARE YA?”

ABOUT NO IDEA

No Idea are a powder keg of different influences: From hardcore street punk to Motown soul, stripped back funk and metal, right in your face. A masterclass live, (the album was recorded in a day) and with a really strong connection to the crowd. They've probably been around the block more times than you.

To understand the band, you first have to understand the ingredients – the people in No Idea.

Spencer, the captivating lead vocalist blends soulful melodies with a barely concealed venom in delivery that is entrancing to see. Spencer is the Queen of 'Catchy' – you'll be humming them for hours, with the hairs bristling on the back of your neck. Echoes of Chrissie Hynde, Dolores O'Riordan and Aretha Franklin.

G Beef on guitar winds together colourful strands of musical influences ranging from early Jam, AC/DC, The Meters and The Clash through a guitar tone paying homage to Billy Duffy and Georgie Walker. Solid, catchy riffs, delivered with devastating brutality.

Steve Cody on bass provides a rich, deep sauce to the proceedings. Smooth, perfectly executed pulsating basslines that hold down every track. Reminiscent of the best players of the 60's and 70's, Steve delivers heaps of low end, as smooth as a mink mitten.

And last but not least, Hans Hammerhantz – 'borrowed' from punk legends One Way System, his drumming is powerful, precise and savage, mixing intricate rhythms with thunderous fills which combined, create a unique style that is as good to watch as to listen to.

This casserole of different influences, creates a unique sound and a powerful, live experience that appeals to all: From emo kids to 1% bikers, No Idea are a safe bet for any occasion. And I should know.
